Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte, 1905; Stephen Blanchard; (pages 175 - 176)

"The Blanchards are an old family on the Front of Sidney. Their American ancestors are said to have come from Holland and settled near Albany, N.Y. An old certificate in the possession of the family shows that Stephen, the Sidney pioneer, was made an (sic) Royal Arch Mason at Albany, April 28th, 1815 by Chapter 5; this fact itself would indicate that Stephen Blanchard was more than an ordinary citizen, as there were few Royal Arch Masons at that time. He settled on the Front of Sidney about 1815, was a millwright by trade and a man of good education and broad ideas. He purchased the property known as "Blanchard's Creek," which at that time contained a very good harbor; and it was predicted that in time a town would develop at this point. Here he built a mill and other buildings and for a time it seemed that his predictions would be fulfilled; but the water power later proved insufficient and the mill property went into decay. Portions of (the) old dam may yet be seen. His first wife (Nancy Yager) died in 1826. His second wife (Susan Howard) died in 1876, aged 78. The pioneer himself died in 1875, aged 89 years.

"William Blanchard, the eldest son, married first Mary Lawrence, who died in 1861 at the early age of thirty; their children were George, Jane, Helen and Alfred. He married twice afterwards, but had no issue; and died in 1880m aged 53 years. Of his children, George went to the United States; Jane married John Way and settled in Ameliasburg; Helen married James Gordon and settled in Wisconsin; and Alfred married Henrietta Jones and settled in Sidney. Thomas Blanchard, the younger son, married Sarah Deacon and settled in Sidney. Like other members of the family he took a leading part in the affairs of the township. He was a class leader, superintendent and trustee in the Methodist church, and also a school teacher. He held the office of Councillor and Assessor in Sidney and audited the township books. He was Secretary and Auditor of Grange No. 42 Sidney, and secretary of the West Hastings Agricultural Society, for several years. He died in 1891 [ed. 1901] aged 71 years, regretted by all who knew him. His wife, Sarah Deacon Blanchard still survives him. They had two children: Thomas D. [Ed. Thomas H.] and Florence.

"Thomas D. Blanchard [Ed. Thomas H. Blanchard] married Rebecca Wills and has one daughter, Ila. He lives on the old homestead, and his widowed mother and sister Florence, who is unmarried, live with him. Thomas D. Blanchard, like his respected ancestors, has the confidence and respect of the community at large and is one of Sidney's leading citizens."
