"Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte, 1904"

"The Lieutenant John Huyck Family"

"Through a variety of causes it is relatively easy to ascertain the genuine U.E.L. pioneers of Adolphustown. We have substantially correct accounts of the Major VanAlstine expedition; the township records themselves reach back to quite an early date, and many of them have been carefully preserved by the Provincial Government.

"The first township in Upper Canada to be settled was King's Town, which still exists substantially as laid out, and includes the city of Kingston. This township was largely granted to and settled by United Empire Loyalists under Captain Michael Grass.

"The second township, called Ernesttown, was settled mainly by the officers and soldiers of Sir John Johnson's regiment, also known as the King's New York Royal Rangers. The third township, or Fredericksburg, was granted mainly to the soldiers of a particular regiment while the fourth township, or Adolphustown, was granted to and settled by some of the best people who made up the United Empire loyalist movement. They had served in the Revolutionary War. and they were nearly all of them people of property, and their average intelligence and education was remarkably high. Hence we find that while Adolphustown is the smallest township in Ontario in area, it has occupied for many years a commanding place in the province, and from its foundation to this time has contributed many men to public life.

"Lieut John Huyck came with the VanAlstine expedition; he left New York September 8, 1783, and arrived in Quebec in the following October. Of the people making up this expedition, the majority spent the winter at Sorel, but in the following spring they all came, in batteaux, to Adolphustown. The expedition was under the command of Major VanAlstine, and his authority was disputed, if not divided by Ruttan, who had been an officer in the regular army; but it is certain that our pioneer, Lieut. John Huyck, stood next to them in authority, and, in every record of that time, the name recurs repeatedly. We know that he landed in Adolphustown June 16, 1784, and that he drew lands and settled there. He participated in the town meetings, and was an officer of Adolphustown in 1793. We find him and his family enumerated in the township records of 1794, and indeed, it appears that he took an active and honorable part in promoting the growth of the township.

"His son, Burger Huyck, married Phoebe Clapp, and settled on the family homestead at Adolphustown. His eldest son, John, married Jemima Clapp, and settled in the same township. Jane Huyck married Samuel Dorland. Ruth Huyck married Larey (sic) Lewis, and Edward Huyck married Elizabeth, daughter of the well-known pioneer Christopher German. He was an officer in the militia and one of the adventurous men who took rafts to Quebec in the early days. He is said to have built the first stone house in Adolphustown.

"Among his descendants should be mentioned Maria A. Huyck, who married Reuben B. Scott, and settled at Colborne. Their children and grandchildren are now quite widely scattered, some of them being in the United States, others in Toronto, while a few are in the neighborhood of Colborne and the Bay district. His son, James P. Scott, married M. Agatha Ives; they reside in Toronto and have four children, namely Susannah Ives, Luella Isabel, Agatha J. and Helen A. The last two named are twins born September 17, 1904."
